WALLPAPER & WALLPANEL

The collection takes us on a voyage into the heart of colour. Inspired by the riches of Mexico, CASA AZUL combines natural materials and ancient artistic techniques. Hand-painted murals, beautifully woven patchworks, plains and designs inspired Mexican flora and fauna are interpreted as fabulous shades. 5 COLORWAYS

Mexicans usually decorate their “tehuana”, a traditional garment for celebrations, with flowers. Lavishly embroidered, it is a real work of art with its bright colours and intricate patterns. This large all-over design is an interpretation of the abundant Mexican flora & fauna. The profusion of colours and the overlapping leaves, flowers & birds create a sense of exultation. This is expressed with the natural, matte finish of the straw-texture paper.

4 COLORWAYS

A legacy of centuries of traditions, the “talavera” is still crafted by two communities in Mexico. This enamelled ceramic is hand-painted, with designs including flowers, leaves and geometric shapes. The contrast between the deep shades and soft natural pigments enhances the decorative elements. Inspired by these traditional techniques, TALAVERA is an opulent design, accentuated by the light and shade effects. It boasts a wealth of shades which are perfectly reproduced on the smooth grain of the paper.

2 COLORWAYS

Mexican murals have had a great impact on art. They include patterns inspired by the Nahua and other indigenous cultures and appear on both internal and external walls. Inspired by this tradition, our design studio has created a large-scale fresco, with hand-painted botanical patterns. The texture of the materials, the intensity of the shades and the sheer size of the shapes create life-sized beauty on the walls. NAHUA is an opulent wallcovering with its eight drops and a width of over five metres and is characterised by its contemporary colours and designs.
